

understand what our government is thinking. They are hitting on the wrong companies and need to think about what they are doing. No one, whether it is cigarettes or alcohol. makes you take the first drink or smoke. You have a choice yourself and can blame no one but yourself. Why can't these people who are suing for money right and left, accept the responsibility for their own actions. Even overeating is bad for your health. Are they going to start suing the different food companies because the label didn't state that too much food is bad for you health?

I hope I am making a big point to you. I would appreciate your response.

Thanks for your time and by the way, you are doing the best you can as President and I commend you for that.
